Republicans Plan New Attempt To Cut Hearings

Sen. Dirksen Says
He Will Make
Concrete Proposal

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republicans plan to make a new try Monday to cut short the dragging Army-McCarthy hearings by putting Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy on the witness stand, informed sources said today.

Simultaneously, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) told reporters he expects to make a "concrete proposal" to shorten the hearings. He would not disclose details of his plan but said the hearings should "end shortly" if it is accepted.

Another source said Dirksen's proposal calls for McCarthy to take the stand to testify and be cross-examined as the next and final witness in the inquiry. The stormy hearings, in recess until Monday, have already run 12 days.

The source said that under Dirksen's plan, subcommittee Counsel Roy M. Cohn and Staff Director Francis P. Carr would not take the stand to answer Army charges that they, along with McCarthy, used "improper means" to curry favor for treatment of a drafted subcommittee aide, Pvt. G. David Schine.

McCarthy's camp counter-charged that the Army used Schine as a "hostage" in an attempt to block McCarthy's investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of secret radar laboratories at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

McCarthy said in Milwaukee Friday night that he would be willing to call a halt to the hearings, which he again labeled a "Red minnow circus," whenever the subcommittee felt they should be stopped. But he said they should be continued until he himself is cross-examined "in detail."

McCarthy also said it didn't make much sense for the subcommittee to be trying to determine how "Schine's shoes were shined when the Communists achieved a major victory in Asia with the fall of Dien Bien Phu."

The White House is known to have been behind previous unsuccessful moves to cut short the hearings.

Meanwhile, Acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) said he would write Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., today for a ruling on whether any part of McCarthy's 2 1/4 page purported secret "FBI letter" would be made public. Brownell has refused to release the whole document on security grounds.

McCarthy Demands Committee Be Shown FBI Letters To Army

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy has demanded that a "series of letters" he says the FBI sent to the Army about Russian espionage be shown to the committee investigating his dispute with the Army.

McCarthy made the demand Friday night after flying from Washington to Milwaukee. He was scheduled to embark on a speech-making tour through northern Wisconsin today.

The Wisconsin Republican said it was important that an FBI "letter" concerning security risks in the Army be made public. The "letter," described as a summary of an FBI memo, has been presented to the committee.

"The letter itself is of no world-shaking importance," McCarthy said. "The important thing is the series of letters from the FBI to the Army all on the subject of 'Espionage R.'"

If the series of letters is not made public, McCarthy said, they should be shown to the committee so it can determine whether any dereliction of duty occurred.

SALINE COUNTY OIL REPORT: 23 Drilling Operations In Saline County

By BOB SKEELS

There are 23 operations in the county this week, seven of which are completed oil wells and one dry hole. Interest is increasing around the second well of John Stelle and associates on the John J. Jones No. 2, 20-88-7c. Today they were drilling ahead at 2875 after recovering commercial shows of oil in the Tar Springs, Cypress and Paint Creek sands. A test of ten feet of Paint Creek sand gassed to the surface in 12 minutes and recovered 480 feet of clean oil, 120 feet of mud mixed oil and no water with a bottom hole pressure of 1149 pounds per square inch. A test on the Cypress recovered 60 feet of oil cut mud with a pressure of 600 pounds. Very little information is being released on these wildcats at this time.

The No. 1 Jones, an east offset, is cleaning out after fracturing the Paint Creek sand 2670-86. The Aux Vases sand 2364-72 pumped 100 barrels of oil a day after fracturing. Bud Rue, consulting geologist of Mt. Vernon is watching these interesting tests and picking the samples for John Stelle. Byron Rucker is the rotary contractor.

Wells Completed
Four miles northwest of Eldorado, Breuer and Robison have completed their No. 1 C. & E. Woodard Heirs 35-75-6c, for an initial production of 35 barrels of oil a day from the Cypress sand 2535-46.

Also in the same area, and just recently completed is the Boling-Lavine-Yabrove and Calvert Drilling No. A-3 Ben Davis, pumping an estimated 55 barrels of oil and 95 barrels of water a day from the Cypress 2530-50 after fracturing. Calvert Drilling and Walter Duncan plugged and abandoned their No. 1 Davis-Smith Unitized lease, SW SE SW, 35-75-6c, at a total depth of 2950 through the Aux Vases sand. A drill stem test of the Cypress recovered only ten feet of drilling mud with a slight show of oil.

Breuer and Robison have set casing and are awaiting cable tools to complete both their No. 1 Woodard Heirs et al unitized lease and the No. 4 J. H. Massey, both in section 35-75-6c.

Drill Ahead
Just south, in section 2-8-6c, Walter Young, Jr. is drilling ahead at 2678 on the No. 1 Martin Blankenship, NW SW SE, with N. V. Duncan's rotary tools of Fairfield. A drill stem test of the Palestine sand recovered 240 feet of salt water with no trace of oil.

George and Wrathe have set casing at 2558 on their No. 5 B. F. Lemons, NW SW NE, 2-8-6c, to test good saturation in the Cypress sand 2534-45, TD 2580.

Their No. 1 Earl and Sally Rhine is on a production test of the same Cypress and their No. 2 has been completed for an initial production of 70 barrels of oil per day after

Two Dead in Crash
During Police Chase
Near Metropolis

METROPOLIS, Ill. (UP) — A wild chase down a highway ended in death early today for two men when the car they were riding in hit two other autos and smashed into a ditch as the driver sought to escape from a police car pursuing him.

The dead men were Loren Young, 42, and Henry Lott, 51, of Metropolis, 34, the driver, who was injured critically and was reported in very poor condition in a Paducah, Ky., hospital, this morning. All were from Metropolis.

Police said the officers started the chase when they saw McDearman's car driving on the wrong side of the highway as it left here heading north. The car outdistanced them until it sideswiped a car driven by Leon Nelson, Carterville, and skidded across the highway and hit an auto driven by Don Shelton, Metropolis, before ending in the ditch on its side.

Recover 10 Bodies Of Navy Fliers Killed in Crash

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (UP) — Mexican sources said today the bodies of 10 U. S. Navy airmen had been recovered from the isolated hillside where their patrol bomber crashed Wednesday night.

Gov. Horacio Teran of Tamaulipas State, who headed a Mexican rescue party that went to the scene of the crash on the Cerro De La Banqueta Hill, said three Navy ambulances were taking the bodies back to the United States.

The plane, on a routine patrol over the Gulf of Mexico, struck the south side of the 3,000-foot hill. Both engines were torn from the fuselage, and parts of the plane were strewn over a distance of about a half mile.

New Political Group Formed 'For America'

CHICAGO (UP) — A new political organization, called "For America," and opposed to "super-internationalism," set out today with the backing of prominent businessmen and public figures to start a "grass roots" movement in next fall's congressional elections.

The group's spokesman, former Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, said it would go into all states and actively support candidates who follow its principles.

"We can have five million members in no time and sweep the country like a prairie fire," he said.

The organization, which adopted the title "For America," issued a "preamble" proclaiming its opposition to "super-internationalism, one-worldism and communism."

Wood, Manion Co-Chairmen
It said it will fight for "Americanism" and states' rights and oppose "so-called preventive wars or police action" and "giving away our money and resources."

About 20 business and political leaders, including Sen. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, founded the organization in a meeting Friday at the exclusive Chicago Club.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, recently retired board chairman of Sears, Roebuck and Co., and Clarence Manion, former head of the president's commission on intergovernmental relations, were named as co-chairmen.

Also appointed was a five-man organizing committee of Fish, Manion, former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, New York author John T. Flynn, and Howard Buffett, former GOP congressman from Nebraska.

Some published reports had said the organization might include Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, but Fish said he had not been asked to join.

The Wisconsin Republican said in Milwaukee that the group included "very good Americans" and added that he had had some advance knowledge of its formation.

Fish said the organization was launched with $250,000 backing contributed by the participants, although original plans had called for one million dollars.

Asked whether the organization was "isolationist," Fish said he disliked "terms which have gone out of fashion" and preferred to call it "nationalist."

Informations charging petit larceny were filed yesterday against four youths caught the night before by city police on the Wiley Motor Co. car lot.

Joe Woods, 21, and Richard Murphy, 18, both of Eldorado, and John Pulliam, 18, St. Louis, were released on bond and Claude Miller, 19, of Junction remained in custody this morning.

They all made statements before city, county and state officers yesterday admitting they took a tire and two hub caps from a car and hit them near the city and were back after more loot when accosted by City Policemen John Stunson and Paul Abney.

Mrs. Frank Smith Of Shawneetown Dies

Begin Indochina Peace Talks at Geneva Parley

Molotov Agrees
To Immediate Talks
Asked by Big Three

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — East and West agreed today to start Indochinese peace talks this afternoon.

The mutual agreement to talk peace was reached after seven years of war in Indochina which has taken a toll of tens of thousands in dead and wounded.

Only 24 hours after the fortress of Dien Bien Phu fell to Communist Indochinese troops, the Western Big Three asked for Soviet approval of the 4 p. m. starting time they had suggested.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov agreed. He made plans to consult with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on minor questions of procedure before sitting down at the conference table in the Palace of Nations.

Experts of the United States, Britain and France met this morning to decide on the immediate opening of the talks. The French had debated through the night whether the fall of Dien Bien Phu necessitated a change in tactics.

Rebel Delegate Elated
But at noon the British delegation, acting on behalf of the Big Three, contacted the Soviets and Russian acceptance of the starting hour was immediate.

Some Western diplomats had feared French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault might prefer waiting until Monday to prevent the opening of the talks from coming so swiftly after the Red triumph in Indochina.

Rebel delegates to the Geneva conference, elated over capture of the French fortress 8,000 miles away, were reported ready to start the talks with an offer of a ceasefire throughout Indochina.

One high Western source warned it would be dangerous to accept the offer without powerful military safeguards, because some 200,000 French Union troops would be jeopardized and the way would be cleared for Red infiltration of the entire country.

To Rotate Chairmanship
Most of the technical problems which had delayed the start of the peace talks were ironed out Friday night. It was agreed to rotate the chairmanship between British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

Informal sources said that the Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu and the failure of French appeals for a "mercy truce" to permit evacuation of wounded troops meant the talks would begin in the worst possible atmosphere.

France and her allies exchanged sharp verbal blows with the Communists over the "mercy truce" issue almost at the hour the news arrived that Dien Bien Phu had fallen.

Each sought to blame the other for the failure to reach agreement on a temporary truce in time to fly out the wounded soldiers before the fall of the fortress.

The Allies accused the Communists of deliberately delaying the ceasefire to use the plight of the wounded men as a bargaining point.

Earl Grigg, 65, senior partner in the undertaking firm, Grigg and Gholson, in Dahlgren, died yesterday at 11:30 p. m. at the Jefferson Memorial hospital in Mt. Vernon.

The body after 4 p. m. today will lie in state at the Grigg and Gholson funeral home. Elmo Gholson is the surviving partner.

No funeral plans have been made.

Lecture Four Eldorado
Youths for Disturbing
Classes at HTHS

Chief of Police Loren Travelsted yesterday lectured and released four teen-aged lads from Eldorado who were reported by Principal R. L. Britain Orders Two Soviet Air Attaches from Country For Attempted Espionage

LONDON (UP) — Britain disclosed today it had caught two Soviet air attaches in "attempted espionage" and had given them 10 days to leave the country.

Maj. Ivan Pupyshov, 35, and Maj. Andrei Gudkov, 36, were no longer acceptable as members of the Soviet Embassy here, the Foreign Office announced. It handed Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik Friday a request—tantamount to an order in diplomacy—for withdrawal of the majors.

No details of the attempted espionage were disclosed by the Foreign Office and it was not known whether any Britons were involved. But it was learned that the activities of the two Russians did not relate to atomic energy. Since Pupyshov and Gudkov were assistant air attaches, there was speculation that they may have tried to steal secrets of Britain's new jet planes.

Similar Case in 1952
A Foreign Office spokesman emphasized the word "attempted" before the word "espionage" indicated the Russians did not get far with their spying.

The disclosure came on top of the Petrov case in Australia and the Khokhlov case in Germany. But informed sources said the information about this case did not stem from information given by the two Soviet agents who asked for political asylum.

The last similar case in Britain occurred in July, 1952, when the Foreign Office demanded the recall of Soviet Embassy Second Secretary Pavel Kuznetsov on charges of obtaining spy material from a Foreign Office wireless operator.

The Foreign Office said Malik had not yet informed Britain that the two air attaches have left the country.

Informal sources said Malik was not given information about the nature of the espionage charges since the Foreign Office is under no obligation to give such information.

Gudkov, 37, and Pupyshov, 36, came to Britain in 1951 accompanied by their families.

Paris (UP)—Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, heroic commander of Dien Bien Phu, did not die in the fall of the flaming fortress, the Communist Indochinese radio disclosed today.

A Red broadcast monitored in Hong Kong said de Castries was taken prisoner in the climax of the epic struggle for the fortress which had become a symbol of freedom.

"All the enemy troops in the sector of Huong Thanh (central sector of the fortress) have surrendered, including the French commander of the place," the broadcast said.

That was the only mention made of de Castries in the message.

De Castries said Friday he would not surrender. But, according to the Red broadcast, the white flag went up at 5 p. m.

Another Communist Viet Minh broadcast later in the day said, "The French garrison and its commander have surrendered."

De Castries was not mentioned by name in the second broadcast either.

After that, pilots who flew over the scene of the gallant battle said they saw no further fighting.

The Communist Viet Minh radio heard in Hanoi claimed Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries surrendered Friday when the main bastion of Dien Bien Phu finally fell under human avalanches of Red attack.

No Information on Nurse
The High Command here gave out no information on the fate of the heroic general who held out for 56 days. Officers doubted he would have surrendered but on this basis of the Red radio reports they believed it was possible he was captured.

The Communist radio did not mention de Castries by name nor did it refer to the lone French nurse among the estimated 9,000 men at Dien Bien Phu.

The French garrison and its commander have surrendered," the broadcast said.

Peiping Radio, mouthpiece of Communist China, also claimed the rebels "wiped out 17 enemy infantry battalions, including seven paratrooper battalions, three artillery battalions and many motorized and sapper units" during the long battle for Dien Bien Phu.

The meeting was sponsored by the Mineral Resources committee of Southern Illinois, Inc., and attended from Harrisburg was Elmer Grisham, assistant business agent of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local No. 318.

Giffen spoke on the prospects of a plant to produce oil and ore from coal, declaring such a place in the midwest would be needed in case of another war.

Mr. Grisham pointed out that there is enough iron ore in coal for its separation along with oil through a steam process.

Southern Illinois, Inc., is pulling for such a plant in southern Illinois. Mr. Grisham declared, and said that this group is planning on a meeting in the near future with the coal producers' associations of the state to get their reactions. If favorable, committees will be appointed to go to Washington to fight for such a plant.

Mr. Grisham, who was named to the committee to meet with the coal producers, declared that if people in the Saline county area would cooperate more with SII, there would be a better chance of securing industry for this area.

Situation in Indochina Is Discussed

Dulles Warned
Allies May Be Forced to Intervene

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower met with the National Security Council in extraordinary session today to weigh conditions that could lead to American military intervention in Indochina along with other free nations.

The council meeting lasted 90 minutes. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, was called in for part of the meeting. No immediate announcement was made after the closed session ended.

The President called the meeting of his top strategists after the fall of Dien Bien Phu to the Communists in Indochina. No reason was given for the conference. But informants said it was sure to center on the critical situation in Indochina and future American strategy to save Southeast Asia from Red conquest.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned Friday night the United States and its allies may have to send armed forces to Indochina if the Geneva conference fails and the conflict continues. He pinned U. S. hopes of avoiding this possibility on a comprehensive system of collective security backed by free nations, whose security would be endangered by Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

In a nationwide radio-TV address approved by the President, Dulles emphasized that the United States "under present conditions" does not plan to send armed forces into the Indochina fight. But he did not rule out the possibility that Congress would eventually be asked to approve dispatch of American forces under a collective banner carried by free nations.

The secretary of state warned that "serious commitments" may have to be made by all the free world to prevent the Communists from taking over Southeast Asia, including Indochina.

Dulles said the Geneva conference would make a real contribution to peace in Southeast Asia if France could write an honorable armistice with Communist negotiators.

Dulles, speaking only hours after the fall of Dien Bien Phu, vetoed any intervention by the United States on its own.

He prodded France to give full independence to the three Indochina states and called on the three states to build up their armies. Urging Asian support for anti-Communist defenses, Dulles assured Asians the United States opposes colonialism and wants "to help, not hinder, the spread of liberty." He appealed for Allied cooperation in other parts of the world.

Dulles also sought to dispel Democratic criticism that the Geneva conference was a diplomatic defeat for the United States. He said the conference may clarify the Indochina crisis.

FHA Counsel is Given 2 Weeks to Answer Charges

WASHINGTON (UP) — Burton C. Boward, general counsel of the scandal-ridden Federal Housing Administration, has been given two weeks to answer charges his work was unsatisfactory or be fired.

The action was taken Friday night by acting FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason. Mason said he had "no evidence of illegal activity" on the part of Boward but charged he "failed to carry out the functions of his office satisfactorily."

Boward was placed on leave several weeks ago after he refused Federal Housing Chief Albert M. Cole's request that he resign. If Boward fails to answer the charges against him within two weeks, he will be removed from office within 30 days.

Boward was the third FHA official ordered to answer charges or be fired since alleged irregularities in the FHA were disclosed. The other two were John P. McGrath, an appraiser, and Wilmer Russell, an inspector, in the Philadelphia FHA office. They have until Monday to answer charges of gift-taking.

Eisenhower to Sign St. Lawrence
Bill Next Week

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower is expected to sign the St. Lawrence Seaway bill next week to end the long fight over the project.

The Senate Friday approved two minor changes made by the House Thursday and sent the seaway bill to the White House.

Chairman Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, an ardent seaway advocate, said he hopes President Eisenhower can sign the bill into law early next week.

Completion of the 2,200-mile shipping route, which would open the Great Lakes to all but the largest ocean-going vessels, is expected to take seven to 10 years.

Canada, which will work on the project jointly with this country, is said to be prepared to begin construction by summer.

Approval of the bill was one of President Eisenhower's major legislative goals. Its final endorsement was assured Thursday when the House adopted it 241-158.

The U. S. Seaway Corp. will have power to borrow 105 million dollars from the Treasury to finance country's share of the project. Canada's share is estimated at 290 million dollars.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Incline thine ear to the words of my mouth.—Ps. 78:1.

We have no exhaustive knowledge of God, but we do have some very definite and simple laws that have been approved by humanity for two or even three centuries. It is idle for us to complain of our lack of knowledge of God's laws when we do not obey those we do have and understand.

PROTECT THE KIDS

Do your children get out in the watch them? You can make or buy a weatherproof, masonite sign that warns motorists, suggests Capper's Farmer. Placed along the road in front of the farmstead, it reads, "DRIVE SLOWLY, CHILD-REN PLAYING."

PUSH BUTTON WEEDER

A time-saver in caring for the farm lawn is an aerosol bomb containing 2, 4-D. It will kill most all broadleaf weeds and won't harm the grass. You can get more than 1,600 shoes out of the weed bomb, enough for even a good size lawn, notes Capper's Farmer.

BOTTLE FED PIGS—Mrs. William Weaver of near Cain school is shown feeding two "surplus pigs" with a bottle. The pigs were two of 17 born to a sow on the Albert Thompson farm on Harrisburg RFD 2. The sow was able to feed only 10 and the remaining are being taken care of by neighbors. (Alta Porter Photo)

'Surplus' Pigs Are Bottle Fed By Neighbor

By ALTA PORTER

When 17 pigs were born to a sow on the Albert Thompson farm, two miles west of Carrier Mills on Harrisburg RFD 2, "plates" had been laid at the sow's dinner table for only 10.

Two of them were given to Mrs. William Weaver, residing in Cain school district, on this same route, and she is bottle feeding them. They have been named "Ike" and "Mamie" by Mrs. Weaver, who has the reputation of "mothering" all of the orphaned, animal or human, that need feeding and caring for. The other "surplus" pigs are being cared for by neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver have wintered stray live stock for their city-farmer friends, and they reared six children orphaned by the death of Mrs. Weaver's sister.

He is a carpenter, as well as a farmer, and their neat farmhouse is equipped with many conveniences which he built. On a glassed-in porch is a whole set of furniture which he built and Mrs. Weaver upholstered with one of the new plastic furniture covers.

When some of her kin started making crocheted bed spreads, she determined to make one also, and finished in six months a pattern that would ordinarily take one a year to make.

Hereford Prize-Winner Has a Glass Eye

HALEYVILLE, Ala. — (AP) — Larry Domino 50th, a $20,000 Hereford, has the right to give other cattle a glassy stare. He is the possessor of a glass eye.

Larry Domino came out the loser in an engagement with a barbed wire fence, but his owner, Dr. R. F. Blake, was not going to let the loss of an eye bar the hefty Hereford from future prizes.

A veterinarian, Dr. Hershel Burgess, and an optical company operator, Jim Clay, combined efforts to design an artificial eye. An ophthalmologist, who preferred to remain

It may be common knowledge, but it will bear repeating that soil micro-organisms decompose plant residues, green manures, and barnyard manures that are plowed down. The number of these microscopic creatures will increase if acid soils are limed.

Looking a bit to the future, here are some hints on renovating an old pasture this summer. Plow it in June after heavy grazing, or as soon as the vegetative growth slows down. Then summer fallow to kill weeds and volunteer grass. Apply lime and plenty of fertilizer before seeding to new grass. The latter part of August. Renovation is best tried when soil water is fairly near the normal water storage reserve for that soil. Successive dry years result in a water reserve depletion and sown pasture has little chance for survival under such conditions.

It ought to be conceded that one of the most important factors affecting farm profits is crop yield. This means a sound land use and soil conservation program is needed for continued high profits. For sustained crop yields in southern Illinois, the basic land treatment of lime, rock phosphate, and muriatic acid of potash has yet no equal. Setting up a crop rotation is an important procedure on any farm because it will affect earnings for years to come.

In southern Illinois it isn't a question of being able to afford fertilizers. The problem is what kind and how much. It should be remembered that a 100 bushels an acre corn crop removes from the soil 160 pounds of nitrogen, 60 pounds of phosphorus, and 110 pounds of potash.

Plowing down a good leguminous sod crop before cropping land to corn perhaps is the best practice to insure a high yielding corn grain crop.

Sneaking of soil fertility and soil-building crops, it should not be overlooked that a legume-grass program is not a success without livestock. Soil-building crops are not soil building when sold off the farm. Too, it is easier to carry on a sound soil conservation program with than without livestock.

That brings along this note, too. Feeder cattle require more total feed—grain and roughage—per 100 pounds of gain in live weight than any other livestock enterprise.

Lightning rod systems on farm buildings are only effective as the grounds are good. Check the connections on the ground rods. It may be the means of preventing a fire.

Many farmers say their farm electric welder is the most valuable tool they have. On a well-managed farm which has considerable machinery and equipment such a welder will pay for itself quickly, and learning to use it correctly takes only a few hours and some common sense.

Don't overlook the other possible uses of electricity on the farm. For a few cents worth of electricity a motor will do as much work as a man can in a day. The moral is, don't try to compete with electricity on jobs which an electric motor can do.

These tests show that fertilized plots without legumes produced 50 bushels of corn per acre. Legumes and no fertilization gave 60-bushel yields. But production jumped to over 100 bushels an acre when both legumes and fertilization were used.

"Illinois Morrow Plots, the nation's oldest soil experiment fields, really prove that it takes both legumes and fertilization to get high yields," says Lang.

anonymous, performed a series of operations to remove the useless eye and replace it with the artificial one.

For pasture purposes it's best to drill Sudan grass solidly in a seedbed similar to that prepared for corn. Plant at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds of seed an acre.

Treat the seed with a fungicide, such as Ceresan or Panogen, before planting. Applying 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre at planting time will also increase production on many soils.

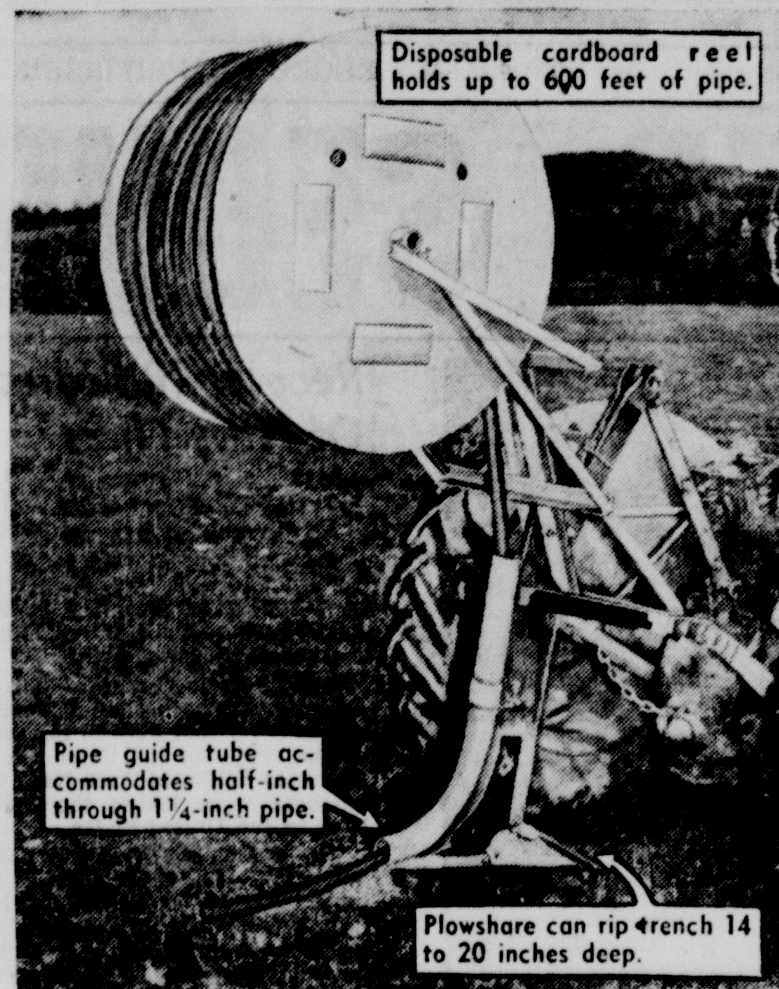

Since Sudan is susceptible to chinch bug damage, it is a common practice to plant soybeans with Sudan. Scott recommends a mixture of 15 to 20 pounds of Sudan and 1½ bushels of soybeans per acre.

Sudan is a sorghum and can cause prussic acid poisoning in livestock, Scott cautions.

This danger can be largely eliminated if you will buy only certified seed or seed that is known to be pure Sudan, let the Sudan reach a height of 18 inches before pasturing, wait several days before pasturing the new growth that appears following a severe drought, and do not pasture after the grass is killed by frost.

SELF-ACTING LIGHTS

Here's a lighting system for the egg storage room that works automatically when someone opens the door. You can't forget and leave the lights on and you don't have to set egg crates down to flip a switch. A simple button switch, like that on a refrigerator door, is the answer, says Capper's Farmer. When the door is opened, the lights go on; when closed, lights go off.

DRUDGERY DISMISSER—Pictured above is a new gadget that promises to take the back-breaking drudgery out of ditch digging for many water pipe installations. It's a plastic pipe layer. In a recent demonstration at Franklin, Pa., 1000 feet of pipe were buried in less than ten minutes. The device uncovers a narrow trench, lays in the pipe and back-fills in one continuous operation. It is described as a great labor-saver in installing underground water lines from house to barn or other outbuildings or lawn sprinkler systems.

Expect More Stewart's Disease In Corn This Year

It will pay this year to plant a hybrid corn that is resistant to Stewart's disease. This disease will probably hit corn crops in the southern two-thirds of the state especially hard this year.

Benjamin Koehler, crop specialist at the University of Illinois, says that using a resistant corn variety is the only practical way you can combat this leaf disease. And no hybrid variety is completely resistant.

Stewart's disease, or bacterial wilt, is caused by bacteria that are injected into the corn leaf by the feeding of corn flea beetles.

These beetles are usually numerous if the total of the mean temperatures for the three winter months is over 100 degrees. Last winter's total was 103.9 degrees.

"Corn flea beetles were numerous last year, and with large numbers overwintering because of the mild winter, leaf blight due to Stewart's disease may be quite heavy this year," says Koehler.

It is particularly important to use resistant varieties in sweet corn, says Koehler. Golden Cross Bantam and a few other varieties are more resistant than older, early varieties.

Steve Moore, extension entomologist with the University of Illinois and the State Natural History Survey, says that corn flea beetles can be controlled with about seven periodic applications of DDT, but this is not economically practical.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Get your car into the proper traffic lane before turning a corner. You will be observing the law (Section 62 (a) and (b), Uniform Act Regulating Traffic), and you will avoid accidents.

If you have pulled up at an intersection in the left traffic lane and, while waiting for the traffic signal to change in your favor, suddenly discover that is the corner where you planned to make a right turn, don't try to cut across in front of the cars in the right hand traffic lane.

Drive ahead to the next corner, get into the right hand lane before you reach the corner and then make your turn. The same procedure should be followed if you want to make a left turn, but find you are in the right hand lane.

Cutting in front of another car, whether it is when starting away from a traffic signal or in steadily moving traffic, is asking for trouble. Whichever way you want to turn, get into the proper lane first.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Corn, Soybean Planting Gets Off to Fast Start

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Planting of corn and soybeans is getting off to a fast start in Illinois it was reported today.

The weekly bulletin of the state-federal Crop Reporting Service said 5 per cent of the state's corn and soybeans already have been planted.

In southern counties, nearly 20 per cent of the corn and 10 per cent of the soybeans are in the ground, the report said.

"Very few fields of either of these crops had been planted at this time a year ago," the bulletin said.

Seeding of Illinois oats was reported "virtually completed," a few days later than last year but almost a week ahead of 1949-53 average.

Crop reporters said plowing for corn and soybeans continued to go ahead of schedule, with almost 85 per cent of it completed.

The bulletin said there was an improvement in the soil moisture supply situation, though too much top soil moisture slowed farm work in many northern and central sections.

Rainfall averaged .45 inch in the northern two-thirds of Illinois and 1.18 inch over the southern third. Heaviest rains totaled more than 1.2 inch at some points near the Ohio River.

SEED RAPE FOR PIGS

If you don't have enough legume acreage to pasture sows and litters, why not seed oats and dwarf Essex rape, suggests Capper's Farmer. Oats will make pasture soon after seeding. The rape, after it is well started, has heavier carrying capacity than most legumes. In Wisconsin tests, alfalfa or red clover carried about 17 pigs an acre. Oats and rape carried 20 to 23 pigs an acre, and the rape stayed good until after the first hard freeze in winter.

Try Atlas Sorgo As Silage Crop

If you want to harvest all of your corn as grain but still need some silage for beef cattle, you might like to try Atlas sorgo.

H. G. Russell, extension livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports a test in which the beef division compared Atlas sorgo with corn silage in a calf wintering program.

In two years, Russell says, the sorgo made 18 and 20 tons of silage an acre, while the corn made 13 and 14 tons.

The two silages were fed to similar lots of calves. Each lot was also fed daily 2 to 3 pounds of legume hay and a pound of soybean oil meal for each calf. Those calves on corn silage gained more rapidly (one and one-third pounds a head daily, compared with one pound), but the total gain for each acre of silage was the same from Atlas sorgo silage as from corn silage.

Russell suggests that you can use Atlas sorgo silage to replace corn silage. But if you do you'll probably need to feed 1 to 2 pounds of corn to each calf daily in addition, along with hay and supplement, to get the same gains as you would get with corn silage.

Sweet Sudan grass and soybeans will yield a big tonnage of silage from each acre. But for best results with them also you'll need to add 3 to 4 pounds of grain for each calf daily.

PUSH FOR DAIRY HEIFERS

In recent Michigan Experiment Station tests, calf gains were speeded 23 percent with aureomycin and 14 percent with bacitracin. Heifers given aureomycin ate more grain and hay, states Capper's Farmer. Bacitracin-fed calves ate more hay. Both lots supplemented with antibiotics made better use of feed than control groups.

In Memoriam
In memory of Wilma Jean Fowler who passed away May 9, 1954. Our rose was but in blossom. Her life was but in spring. When down the solemn midnight we heard the angels sing. Another bud of infancy. With holy dew's impearled. And in their hands they bore Our wee white rose of all the world.
Sadly missed by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Fowler, brothers, Donnie and Bobby and sister, Mrs. Bob Boatright. *264-1

In Memoriam
In fond remembrance of Mrs. Ada Abney, who passed away two years ago today.
"We never had to turn to see if she stood near.
But knew, when needing her
That she would soon appear.
For weeks she might remain away.
If skies were fair,
But should there come a troubled day,
You'd find her there."
Sadly missed by her niece. *264-1

Maybe most of those cuts and scratches would heal without any medicine. But who can tell when a simple scratch is going to develop into a serious infection?

Mother is alert to every possibility of danger for her children. Guarding them against infection is part of her daily responsibility.

Incidentally, that accounts for Mother's constant concern for her children's religious training. She knows that there are "infections" which destroy our moral and spiritual well-being.

Every Sunday, with her husband and her children, you'll find Mother in Church. For the Church is one of the few things that Mother considers even more essential to the well-being of her family than that bottle of antiseptic in the medicine closet.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself. For the sake of his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

When for some years during the summers our home was visited by my nephews and nieces, I would read the Bible daily at family worship. The children would say, "Read the Old Testament, uncle." I suppose that the distinctive and beautiful stories of the New Testament were already very familiar to them, but I have often wondered why they so much emphasized that preference for the Old.

Certainly, much in the Old Testament cannot be considered appropriate for children—the records of evil kings, the stories of violence and wars, the flagrant immoralities of individuals and the adultery of King David.

The Old Testament would not be an honest record if it did not reflect the times out of which it came. Nor would it be so if I ignored the evil in him and dealt only with his quest of righteousness and his achievements of faith and goodness.

What is dominant in the Old Testament, though children would hardly sense this, is the triumph of good over evil, the passion to be and to do right, the noble and courageous aspiration of those who cried:

"Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting" (Psalms 139:23, 24).

That is something far removed from the evil of kings, and the fantasies of false prophets, about which I have been reading in I Kings.

I imagine one of the stories in which the children delighted was the story of Elijah, the man of goodness and courage, the heroic defender of all that he believed to be right, even when he thought that he was standing alone.

I think, perhaps, I should have tried to impress upon the children the fact that Elijah was mistaken about his standing alone. There were seven thousand like him. We never stand alone when we stand for the right.

What a treasure house of stories the Old Testament has, as these children had found out! Is it any wonder that they found such intense interest in the dramatic story of Cain and Abel?

Is it any wonder they delighted in Abraham's pioneer travel and his magnanimous dealings with Lot; in the story of Joseph, with its tense scenes and its amazing contrasts, and the indomitable character of a man true alike in the depth of adversity as in the height of power?

The story of Moses and the Promised Land—the story of Samuel in the temple; those of the great patriots Ezra and Nehemiah—all these the children found delight.

How wonderful it would be to be young again, with a bunch of youngsters around me, to tell it all again! I wonder how many of you who teach in Sunday schools realize what a privilege it is yours, and what an honor.
